SMALL BOY HAS "COFFEE HEART"

Child of Eight is in City Hospital Slowly Regaining Health.

HEART BEATS TOO FAST
Muscle Was Wearing Itself Out--Drank a Dozen Cups a Day.

Excessive coffee drinking, city hospital physicians say, is the cause of little Johnnie Murphy's heart disease. Although only 8 years old, he has one of the worst cases of heart lesion that has ever come to the institution.

When he entered the hospital the child's heart was beating 160 to the minute, just twice the normal rate for a child of his age. For one month he has had no coffee and his heart action has been reduced to 100 beats a minute.

For two years the child has been drinking from nine to twelve cups of strong coffee every day. He began to complain of pains, as if needles were sticking in his heart, and for a year has slept scarcely three hours a night, and then sitting propped up in a chair beside an open window.

Johnnie did not care for things to eat; coffee was all the food he craved, and except when cake or candy was given him, he took no other nourishment. As he was sick and not expected to recover, he was given all the coffee he desired, until a physician saw him and advised that he be sent to the city hospital.

Heart Was Overworked.
Every beat of the child's heart could be plainly seen. To one inexperienced in medicine, it would seem that the heart extended over two-thirds of the chest region, and that the pulsation is of a heavy, prolonged character, quite different from the sharp, quick beat of the normal heart. The boy is small for his age, and the efforts of physicians have been to build up his strength. His treatment has been largely tonics and heart regulating medicines, such as strychnine or digitalis.

As the heart, like other muscles, can stand only a given amount of work, hospital internes estimate that the sixty beats a minute he is now being saved by his abstinence from coffee, will prolong his life ten or twelve years.

The heart of a man who dies at 70 years has beaten 200,000,000 times, and if the normal heart was 72, little Johnnie Murphy was living twice as fast as any normal person. When he first entered the hospital, physicians freely prophesied that he could live only a few weeks. Under the treatment and total abstinence from coffee he has so improved that his chances for a long life are considered good if the heart lesion and degeneration already set up can be healed.

He is a son of John Murphy, of 116 South Fourteenth street. Mrs. Murphy told the physicians that none of her other children had showed signs of heart disease nor had they a marked fondness for coffee.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Literally thousands of people suffer more or less from heart weakness caused by coffee, and with some, even one cup a day will bring on heart trouble.

The heart that has been only slightly attacked by coffee will protest and make its weak condition known under slight exertion, and it is plainly a dangerous condition to get into. It is a curious fact that coffee does not always attack the heart, but goes after the stomach, liver and bowels of some and leaves the heart alone.

MAN WHO LIVES ONLY ON TEN DOLLARS YEARLY

VETERAN OF THE CIVIL WAR, HE OWNS AN ACRE OF GROUND AND HAS GOOD FISHING.

Near Mirror Lake, Sank county, Wis., is a log cabin, in which a man has lived for forty years on $10 a year, says a Dispatch. George Skinner is his name, and he seems perfectly contented.

The old man is a Civil War veteran. When he was discharged at the end of the war he had money enough to purchase an acre of ground on the shores of picturesque Mirror Lake. In this acre of ground he planted vegetation and fruit trees. Close to the house there grows a thick cluster of blackberry bushes, and in the garden behind it there are long rows of strawberries. Over the fence that separates the yard from the road are wild roses. Here the veteran makes his home.

How does he live?
Each day he takes his fishing rod and goes down to Mirror Lake. That is his pork barrel. The fish that he draws out of those waters supply his dinner, likewise his breakfast. The vegetables and meal made from corn grown in his garden complete his diet. For his lake fishing, Skinner has built himself a boat, which is as unique as himself. In order that he may fish and propel his boat at the same time he has invented an extraordinary contrivance.

At the stern of the boat he has a paddle like that of a river steambot. This is turned by means of a chain running on cogs and attached to a crank that the old man turns with one hand as he trolls with the other. From this strange craft, nicknamed "the flying machine," by the people Skinner lives during the winter as well as the summer. From the overabundance of one season he saves enough to meet the necessities of the other. During the summer months he fishes continuously. He catches on an average one hundred fish a day, mostly small ones. Ten of these suffice for his two simple meals.

The other ninety are carefully cleaned and stored away in great barrels of brine kept in the cellar of his cabin. When he has enough barrels of fish stored away to last him through the winter, he stops fishing, as he thinks it is a sin to kill any creature, even fish, except for food.

From his garden he cans his vegetables and berries. Everything that he needs is supplied from "nature's pork barrel."

ARTESIA ADVOCATE ON THE ROSWELL CREAMERY

HOW IT BENEFITS FINANCIALLY AND OTHERWISE, ITS PROPRIETORS, AND THE DENIZENS OF TOWN AND COUNTRY.

The Advocate feels justified to say that no institution yet established in the Pecos Valley will bring quicker or more telling results to the farmers of the Pecos valley than the creamery recently put in operation at Roswell. We say so because it creates a demand, right now, for every pound of grain and roughness grown in the valley. This is a fact that may not be generally known.

H. P. Hobson, manager of the creamery, spent Wednesday here, and was shown over the country by Mayor John Richey, interviewing the farmers and urging more of them to send cream to the creamery. He was greatly surprised at the thousands of acres of feed stuffs grown around Artesia this year and told the farmers of a way to dispose of every particle of it. The creamery is now putting up about 500 pounds of butter a day, when its capacity is 2,000 pounds. All it lacks is cream, and to get this paying inducement is offered. The creamery will furnish reliable parties with cows on credit, if necessary, and a separator on the same terms, and agree to take every pound of butter fat at an average price of 25c per pound the year round. Farmers in the valley are now making about $7 per month from each cow. Cream can be shipped to Roswell on the morning train, the express company having given a very low rate and returns empty cans free. Many farmers around Roswell are making as high as $100 per month off of milk alone. The farmers around Artesia can do even better, for the reason that feed is more plentiful and all have alfalfa pastures the year round.

A careful estimate shows that our feed stuffs will bring a 20c value, when fed to good cows, as follows: Alfalfa, $12; Kaffir corn, $3 to $5; sugar beets $4 to $6 per ton. Kaffir corn ground, and fed with roughness, $1 to $1.50 per hundred, and the beauty of it is that a man can dispose of all he can raise.

The Advocate sincerely hopes that many farmers in the Artesia country will take hold of the proposition and create a home demand for feed stuffs.

BAPTISTS WILL BUILD CHURCH AT ROSWELL

The Baptists of Roswell have plans made for the building of a $20,000 church, and they hope to begin work within the coming winter months, says the Roswell. If the subscriptions come fast enough the work will be started this fall, and this is what the more hopeful expect.

In building a $20,000 church the Baptists will step ahead of the times a little, for the sum will put up a building far ahead of anything the town has at present. A $20,000 church usually goes with a town of 12,000 or 15,000 people, and thus the Baptist people are showing an abiding faith in Roswell and its future. As one of them said, they are deserving of the encouragement and assistance of the whole city.

NEW MAN AT ROSWELL INVESTIGATING LAND FRAUD

F. C. Desendorf, of Washington, D. C., has arrived in Roswell and will be here indefinitely looking after the work of investigation or reporting government land frauds, says the Record. Mr. Desendorf has charge of the legal part of the business and will go over New Mexico and Arizona. His headquarters are in Santa Fe. He has been in the territory since September, when he was appointed to take the place of George F. Wilson, who formerly had charge of the legal part of this work and made his headquarters at Las Vegas, and was removed by the government on the charge of accepting a bribe. Mr. Wilson claimed that he took the money to secure positive evidence against the bribe-giver. He has since gone to Oregon to answer to a charge of land fraud brought against him there.

SOME TYPES OF EUROPEAN COPPERS

PRUSSIA.

This Prussian sub-ban copper is not real. "The Copperhead" is a Ring Tonight. He is telling folks a few things that the burgomaster wants to know.

RUSSIA.

Bundled up this way this Russian policeman is one who would hardly think that an anarchist bomb could ever scatter him. But his attire is due to the fact that Russian winters are very fierce—as are also Russian bombs.

GERMANY.

The police officer, of Berlin, is a smart looking, well attired official. That military helmet of his, however, would cause him no end of trouble with American boys. They'd ask him on sight, "Where's the parade going to be?"

FRANCE.

A natty, impressive individual is the Parisian gendarme. Anybody might suppose that he could say effectively: "Two is a couple, three is a crowd, four on a corner is not allowed."

ITALY.

There isn't much to say about the unpretentious-looking sergente de la polizia of Venice. He is probably gazing toward the Bridge of Sighs and wondering how much longer he will have to stand on his canal beat.

HUNGARY.

The gentleman from Budapest looks for all the world as if he had been betwined with variegated garments after receiving an "open key" to Chicago.

BURT ALVORD OUT OF PENITENTIARY

ARIZONA OUTLAW RELEASED AT YUMA AND GOES TO LOS ANGELES.

After serving a term of two years in the penitentiary at Yuma, Ariz., Burt Alvord has been released and is now said to be in Los Angeles. His health is said to be the result of his long confinement.

Alvord was found guilty of the charge of robbing the United States mails. Previous to that he was tried on the charge of complicity in the robbery of a train near Cochise, Ariz., in 1899. He was acquitted, and his arrest on the charge of robbing the mails immediately followed. While confined in the jail at Tombstone, Alvord and several others, including Billy Stiles, planned a jail delivery, which was successfully carried out. Six months afterward, however, Alvord surrendered.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The conference of School Superintendents of the state of New York opened its 23d annual meeting in the Aldermanic chamber of the city hall last evening.

Several hundred members are expected to attend. The session was called to order by the president, Clinton E. Marsh. The members were welcomed, and Miss Julia Richman of New York City, the Rev. O. P. Gifford and Superintendent Henry P. Emerson of Buffalo, delivered addresses. The principal business meeting and election of officers was held this morning. In the afternoon the members will be taken on an automobile ride through the parks and residential portions of the city. Tomorrow evening the members of the council will be the guests of the Women Teachers' association at the Chapter House in Johnson Park. This afternoon the visiting members were shown through the Albright Art Gallery and the public library, where several special exhibits of interest to schoolmen have been prepared.

WILLING HELPERS

What's the use of a helper if he isn't willing? Willingness is an ample mantle which will also most cover all the sins of service. But a classified advertisement in The Evening Citizen is a willing helper that is not only absolutely competent, but also is a willing worker. It works all the time for you. It is the best and most economical publicity in the world.

Full of Tragic Meaning are these lines from J. H. Simmons, of Casey, Ia.
